Listening to the Voices of Global Practitioners In Christian mission, we cross boundaries between the people of God and the not-yet people of God, declaring "[God's] glory among the nations" (Ps 96:3). Mission begins and ends in worship. In mission, we proclaim the death, burial, and resurrection of Christ. We also care for the whole person. Thus, at its core, mission intertwines praise, word, and deed. This book represents the latest in missiological thinking. Though some contributors are scholars and even professors, most are field practitioners —evangelists, church planters, Bible translators, medical professionals, refugee workers, and community development specialists. Based on decades of faithful service, they report on what they have learned about mission. Mission in Praise, Word, and Deed addresses a wide range of critical concerns, such as informal theological education, Bible translation, business as mission, trauma care, and working on multicultural teams. As we ponder best mission practices, it's wise to hear from global practitioners—those who have been at it for a long time. This book represents the diversity of the global church. They are men and women from Africa, Asia, Latin America, North America, and Europe who have served or presently serve in places across the world. These contributors share the conviction that the future of missions involves a growing global church and missionary workforce joining hands to complete the Great Commission amid severe opposition and disruption.

What would it look like if an Avenger turned up to help in youth work? Perhaps it would breathe a fresh sense of purpose. Maybe the primary response would be relief that backup had arrived. They would certainly pull a crowd for a few weeks at least. Looking for a superhero might be a good idea. But there is a better one. It's called the church. Boring? Irrelevant? All dressed up but nowhere to go? Looking Good Naked strips off the ill-fitting outfits and recovers a biblical theology of the church as the body of Christ, drawing on the narratives of youth work and ministry. Written for the student of youth ministry, full-timer, part-timer or extra-timer, it is an engaging, practical, and deep book, seeking to renew our confidence in who we are in light of whose we are, so we can better engage with young people.

Ein aufwühlender, so brutaler wie zärtlicher Roman über einen jungen Mann auf der Suche nach seinem Leben. Jaxie Clackton hat Angst, nach Hause zu gehen, seit seine Mutter gestorben ist. Sein Vater bedeutet für ihn nur Ärger und Gewalt, und am liebsten wäre es ihm, wenn er auch tot wäre - dummerweise hat dem Jungen noch keiner gesagt, dass man mit seinen Wünschen vorsichtig sein soll. Mit 15 Jahren ist Jaxie nun allein auf der Welt, in einem öden Kaff in Westaustralien, und wahrscheinlich glaubt ihm keiner, dass er seinen Vater nicht selbst umgebracht hat. Also läuft er davon, weg von den Menschen, immer Richtung Norden, direkt hinein in die heiße, wasserlose Salzwüste, eine tödliche Gefahr für jeden, der sich dort nicht auskennt. Eine Tour, die nur Träumer und Gejagte wagen. Mitten im Nirgendwo, am Ende seiner Kräfte stößt Jaxie auf einen einsamen alten Mann in einer verlassenen Schäferhütte, und obwohl sein Leben von ihm abhängt, weiß er nicht, ob er ihm trauen kann ...

An ancient enemy... A hidden power... A war as old as the universe... This isn't the first invasion. This time, they're taking everything...and everyone. Earth, still patching itself together after the 300 Years War, is severely unprepared and outnumbered when the invasion hits. Their only hope is a small team of soldiers on a suicide mission to infiltrate the mothership and relay critical defense information home. Sergeant Nakio Atana is the Universal Protectors' elite assassin. But a daring escape from an enemy ship during the last invasion knocked years of her life into darkness. Atana carries out orders with inexplicable apathy and advances their militaristic force with technical knowledge beyond Earth's evolution. What she is can change the future. Command hasn't told her everything. Sergeant Bennett must guard her with his life. Together, Atana and Bennett lead a team to the mothership in hopes her knowledge, and his crew's skills, will render them a soft spot in the alien armor. What they find in the stars and within themselves challenges the code they live by and their concepts of the power within. Infused with cyberpunk, dystopian, and space battle elements, Stellar Fusion will launch you into a future where love is forbidden to those with the most important duty, protecting what remains of the human race. No one escapes the Suanoan empire forever.

"Compelling characters and imminent danger. Comradery, loyalty, survival, threat, and danger are expertly woven into an engaging plot... This futuristic world has some technologies that are both beautifully and terrifyingly imagined, those that will aid our heroes, and those that will stand in their way...really enjoyable, interesting, and most importantly fun to read." -- Goodreads Review, ★★★★★ "Enjoyed the theory of operations of the weapons!" -- Goodreads Review, ★★★★★ "If you love character-driven sci fi with a great message, I really recommend Stellar Fusion. I loved Atana's transformation throughout the book, from cold, businesslike super soldier to a compassionate leader who will stand in front of any threat for her people and friends. The tech is incredibly detailed and intriguing, and I loved the different alien species. Can't wait to read more from these characters as their story continues!" --Goodreads Review, ★★★★★ Infinite Spark Series: 0: Rise of the Blood Phoenix 1: Stellar Fusion 2: Requiem 3: Shadows of the Son 4: Red Shift 5: Earth's Vengeance Psalm 23 aus der Sicht eines Schafhirten Thomas Nelson Inc

Conflict of Interest; Money Drives Medicine. And People Die. By: Leonard A. Zwelling, MD, MBA and Marianne L. Ehrlich About the Book Money drives medicine. All doctors are not good. Hospitals are dangerous places. People die. With the incisive eye of those who have lived the experiences of health care delivery gone wrong, Dr. Zwelling and Ms. Ehrlich weave a frightening narrative about shocking and grievous events that occur when conflicts of interest among the staff and faculty of a major academic medical center prevail over the Hippocratic Oath, Primum Non Nocere. First do no harm.

The fruit of the Spirit, found in Ephesians 5:22-23, can and will transform your life. The fruit of the Spirit--love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, and self-control--aren't just a to-do list. Each one is an attribute to God and each other. These qualities are given to us by God when we accept Him and His Spirit comes to live in us. But they are not gifts we just passively receive. God wants us to join in growing the fruit in our lives by making intentional choices. Named after the "Fruit of the Spirit" children's song by Uncle Charlie. The fruit of the Spirit's not a coconut; the fruit of the Spirit's not a coconut; if you want to be a coconut; you might as well hear it; you can't be a fruit of the spirit; cause the fruit is love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness and self-control.

As we read the stories of the birth, death, and resurrection of Jesus it's easy to believe we are removed from the stories and observe the events from afar. In Holiday Biblical Characters: Finding My Stories in the Stories of Christmas and Easter David Waddell, author of Characters of the Bible: Finding My Stories in Their Stories, once again correlates stories from his life and finds similarity with the characters in the stories of the Bible. He finds himself offering gifts to the Christ child and later denying that he even knows Him. In Holiday Biblical Characters: Finding My Stories in the Stories of Christmas and Easter, we can find comfort in knowing that while we are just like Biblical people, we too can know the grace God offers to all.

This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book (without typos) from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1918 edition. Excerpt: ... CHAPTER VI COMFORT FOR SHADOWS AND SORROWS "Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me" There are glens in Palestine so deep that the sun reaches them for a brief period only at midday. They are usually deeply shadowed. One must know the pathway well to walk through them. It is possible that such tunnels as have been found in Damascus may also have been in the author's mind. One has been found which is dark and damp, and leads for some distance under the hills until it finally opens into the beautiful garden surrounding a wonderful Oriental palace. All periods of life have shadows. Childhood is sometimes spoiled and even the future poisoned by stories told little folks to frighten them for sport, or even to secure obedience. I can well remember and shrink yet at the recollection of the recitals of Indian massacres retailed as occurring daily near my home town by marauding bands on the way to my home town and soon to arrive. My father kept a hotel, and boarders enjoyed seeing me shiver with fear as they told me the blood-curdling Indian stories. It is a shame to allow little ones to be thus frightened. Childhood dreams are often fiercely real and bring intense suffering. All of us have awakened to find chairs inhabited by various kinds of fearful beings--"bogies." They disappeared when we heard the sweet voice of mother or father come through the darkness with reassurance. How foolish those early fears now appear! The darkness has no "spooks" in it. The blue-coated policeman so avoided really loves children. No sort of a "big" man would dare cut off our ears. We often forgot that our parents would shield us in child days to the limit of...

ISSN: 2397-9607 Issue 270 In this 270th issue of the Baba Indaba's Children's Stories series, Baba Indaba narrates the story of "THE FAIRY GARDENS." ONCE upon a time, long, long ago and far, far away, there lived a man called Kostas. Uncle Kostas, as everyone called him, had once been a prisoner of the fairies. He would sit stiffly down upon a stone and lean upon the tall, shepherd's staff which he always carried, to recount his story. His story goes that one day he was resting at noon beside a spring under the shadow of a pine in one of the Dragonorahes, Dragon Hills, after eating his bread and cheese. He closed his eyes for a little while and when he opened them, there were fairies dancing all around him in the air. He knew that he was handsome, handsome enough to tempt them to carry him away, but since he had his gun with him he thought himself safe. Some of the fairies were singing, others were playing their flutes, and all would pause now and then to ask Kostas to play his flute and dance with them. Pointing to his gun, he shook his head and even though they were angry they dared not harm him. Suddenly the music and the dancing ceased. The fairies whispered together a moment and then disappeared like a cob web that is brushed away. Kostas was about to go back to his sheep, grazing lower down on the hillside, but he was unable to move, even to stretch out his hand. Then the fairies were back again and this time their queen was with them, riding on a great white horse. Around her were a thousand fairies on white horses and others kept coming and coming until the Dragonorahe was covered with them. Kostas tried to stand up, he tried to reach his gun, but he could do nothing except gaze at the beautiful queen, with her shining, silken hair and her shimmering white garments, as she sat upon her proud horse. There was a great murmuring around him. After a while he understood that all the fairies were talking about him. "Does he please you?" one asked the queen. "Will you have him?" asked another. The queen looked down at him thoughtfully for a long time. Then she smiled, lifted her wand and cried, "I shall have him! He is beautiful! Let us bring him with us!" And so Kostas' journey to the land of the fairies began. But how long did old Uncle Kostas live with the fairies and how did he escape from the clutches of the fairy queen? Early October 2013, an experienced hunter goes into a remote section of the New Jersey Pine Barrens alone ... and disappears. Five days later his pet cocker spaniel is found in his abandoned and unlocked SUV with the keys still dangling from the ignition. His wallet and cell phone lie undisturbed on the dashboard. For a solid week the authorities comb the forbidding woods but come up empty. Nine months later the case has gone cold. There have been no new leads in the deepening mystery. The 'widow' and her family are anxious to get closure and collect on the missing hunter's sizeable life insurance policy. But the insurance company remains skeptical. Under pressure the company sends a small team back into the woods to conduct one final search for evidence of what may have happened to the missing man. The team includes Kelly Martin the insurance field investigator, her live-in boyfriend Danny Windsor who has scored a plum assignment with the local newspaper and Tom Banks, a well-known local guide and professional tracker. Also along are Park Ranger Randi Lee and the enigmatic FBI agent, Russell Shaw. Kelly's brother Geoffrey is paired with Noah Parsons, a former Coast Guard commander to monitor the expedition remotely under the watchful glare of an incredulous NJ State Police Lieutenant and the growing irritation of an uncooperative cranberry farmer. Based in part on an actual event all signs point to something sinister as the search team runs into trouble from the start before sending them on an unexpected and dangerous adventure of their own. With a large payout hanging in the balance and a man's fate lingering in mystery and doubt, every snapping twig, every falling leaf and every rustle of the wind will have your hair standing on edge.

Most of Israel's pastoral imagery is grounded in two traditions: Moses as God's under-shepherd and David as shepherd-king. In this New Studies in Biblical Theology volume, Timothy Laniak follows the figure of the shepherd through the pages of Scripture to help today's leaders find their place in the ancient pastoral tradition.

Psalm 23 has been read and cherished by countless generations and is considered the most popular psalm in the Bible. Packed with charts, illustrations, simple summaries, and more, Psalm 23 is a great Bible study tool that provides a number of scriptural references that shows the importance of following the good shepherd. Now you can get an insider's look at what Psalm 23 is all about --a view from the shepherd. Learn how - Psalm 23 reveals the yearly cycle of sheep moving through their pastures A nomadic shepherd cared for his flock Danger, drama, and salvation from death figured into shepherding Sheep learned to trust and recognize their shepherd Compare rod and staff references throughout the Bible The Psalm 23 pamphlet is a word-by-word study of this cherished psalm, providing a meaning and an application for each phrase, as well as related Bible passages. For example: "He restores my soul" Meaning--God cares for and keeps my heart and mind. Sheep may become "cast," stuck on their backs, unable to get up. A downcast sheep is one that has rolled over into a depression and cannot right itself to stand. In this condition, a sheep struggling to raise itself may quickly become dehydrated in the simmer sun. A cast sheep is also easy prey for wild animals--top heavy, body down in a hole, legs flailing the air, a sheep in this state is a funny sight to see--funny, but also helpless. Application--We can trust God for the needs of the body and spirit. How has God restored your soul? Related Passages--John 16:33; 17:13; Psalms 42:11 Psalm 23 also includes a number of charts that compare a shepherd's duties with Jesus' actions, Old and New Testament shepherding imagery, Scripture references that show how different people in the Bible use their rod and/or staff, and other information that will help you with your daily walk the Lord.
