Mandalas represent the sacred circle. They emerge from the center of the Universe to extend fractally to infinity. House of the "bindu" or central point from which everything is born. In addition, they contain the four cardinal points and the secret of symmetry and perfection. Since ancient times the activity of painting mandalas has been carried out as a relaxation technique. Different oriental schools have developed this technique, since coloring mandalas has multiple benefits. Some of the benefits of coloring mandalas are: Relieve stress and anxiety, develop focus and concentration, provide serenity, and facilitate balance and peace of mind.
