An Introduction to Sociolinguistics

Prabhat Prakashan
Despite China's desire to make its rapid ascendance in the 21st century as non provocative as possible, the key to ensure China's peaceful rise lies in two-way integration and engagement. A closely integrated China with the rest of the world and China's acceptance of existing international norms and rules may compel

China to behave in a more predictable and responsive way. This co-edited book examines China's rising military capacity and the complex feelings its neighbors, such as Taiwan, South Korea and India, have toward the increasingly powerful China. The focus of this book is on the efforts made by China to brand her non-aggressive image through promoting public diplomacy and expanding regional free trade and cooperation in Asia and Latin America. It uses the cross-Taiwan-strait relations as a testing ground for the prospect of peace between the two former adversaries. China's Quiet Rise will help readers understand why integration, instead of isolation and containment, may be the most effective way to facilitate China's peaceful rise.

This book explores the cultural politics of Pakistani crossover stardom in the Hindi film industry as a process of both assimilation and “Otherness”. Analysing the career profiles of three crossover performers – Ali Zafar, Fawad Khan, and Mahira Khan – as a relevant case study, it unites critical globalization studies with soft power theory in exploring the potential of popular culture in conflict resolution. The book studies the representation and reception of these celebrities, while discussing themes such as the meaning of being a Pakistani star in India, and the consequent identity politics that come into play. As the first comprehensive study of Pakistani crossover stardom, it captures intersections between political economy, cultural representation, and nationalist discourse, at the same time reflecting on larger questions of identity and belonging in an age of globalization. Crossover Stars in the Hindi Film Industry will be indispensable to researchers of film studies, media and cultural studies, popular culture and performance, peace and area studies, and South Asian studies. It will also be of interest to enthusiasts of Indian cinematic history.

The field of Bollywood studies has remained predominantly critical, theoretical and historical in focus. This book brings together qualitative and quantitative approaches to tackle empirical questions focusing on the relationship between soft power, hybridity, cinematic texts, and audiences. Adopting a critical-transcultural framework that examines the complex power relations that are manifested through globalized production and consumption practices, the book approaches the study of popular Hindi cinema from three broad perspectives: transcultural production contexts, content trends, and audiences. It firstly outlines the theoretical issues relevant to the spread of popular Indian cinema and emergence of India's growing soft power. The book goes on to report on a series of quantitative studies that examine the patterns of geographical, cultural, political, infrastructural, and artistic power dynamics at work within the highest-grossing popular Hindi films over a 61-year period since independence. Finally, an additional set of studies are presented that quantitatively examine Indian and North American audience consumption practices. The book illuminates issues related to the actualization and maintenance of cinematic soft power dynamics, highlighting Bollywood's increasing integration into and subsumption by globalized practices that are fundamentally altering India's cinematic landscape and, thus, its unique soft power potential. It is of interest to academics working in Film Studies, Globalisation Studies, and International Relations.

„Bollywood“ – heute die produktivste Filmindustrie der Welt und für viele

Europäer:innen
 Synonym für überlange, mit Tanz und Gesang durchsetzte Streifen. Nicht zuletzt die Assoziation mit Hollywood fördert darüber hinaus den Eindruck eines durchkommerzialisierten, oberflächlichen Kinos. Doch verdeckt eine solche Sicht den Blick auf die Anfänge der Filmproduktion in Bombay, dem heutigen Mumbai, wo 1934 die Bombay Talkies Ltd. entstanden sind, gegründet und geleitet von Himanshu Rai und dessen Frau Devika Rani. Während letztere einer der frühen Stars des indischen Kinos wurde, sorgte nicht zuletzt Rai dafür, dass die Filme zahlreiche sozialkritische Themen aufgriffen. Überdies setzte er beim Aufbau der Bombay Talkies auf die Hilfe ausländischer Spezialisten, allen voran auf die der drei Deutschen Franz Osten (Regie), Josef Wirsching (Kamera) und Karl Graf von Spreti (Filmarchitekt). Der Band wirft Schlaglichter auf ausgewählte Aspekte von deren - vorrangig Spretis - Schaffen, thematisiert ihre Wahrnehmung des Fremden und bettet dies in einen übergeordneten (kultur-)historischen Kontext ein. Des Weiteren wird nach der Relevanz der Filmindustrie für die indische Gesellschaft gefragt, insbesondere nach der Sozialkritik im Film sowie nach Stereotypen über Indien im Deutschland der 1920er und 1930er Jahre.

In an interconnected world, literature moves through transnational networks, crosses borders, and bridges diverse cultures. In these ways, literature can bring people closer together. Today, as hopes for globalization wane and exclusionary nationalism is on the march, can literature still offer new ways of relating with others? Comparative literature has long been under the spell of circulation, contact, connectivity, and mobility—what if it instead sought out their antitheses? States of Disconnect examines the breakdown of transnationalism through readings of literary texts that express aversion to pairing ideas of China and India. Focusing on practices of comparison, Adhira Mangalagiri considers how these texts articulate the undesirability or impossibility of relating with national others, tracing portrayals of prologue, an epilogue, and sixteen chapters that both build upon and diversify the success of the 2011 volume

Autobiographical International Relations . Here, as in that volume, academics place their narratives in the context of world politics, culture, and history. Contributors explore moments in their academic lives that are often inexpressible in the standard academic voice and which, in turn, require a different way of writing and knowing. They write in the belief that academic IR has already begun to benefit from a different kind of writing—a stylae that retrieves the I and explicitly demonstrates its presence both within
