The Renaissance Art Period - About.com Art History Renaissance art is the painting, sculpture and decorative arts of the period of European history, emerging as a distinct style in Italy in about 1400, in parallel with developments which occurred in philosophy, literature, music, science and technology. Renaissance art - Wikipedia Renaissance artists introduced realism and real life things into their art works. Most of the art works prior to this period used to primarily focus on religion and Christianity. While many Renaissance artists also painted scenes of religion, they moved more towards humanistic themes, power and the identity of a person as an individual. What Are the Characteristics of Renaissance Art? Life during the Renaissance (1450-1600) was interesting. The Black Death influenced the development of the Renaissance. 80% of the population died because of it. It hit during 1350 and ended in 1450. After it, people thought that they had rediscovered the culture of the Roman Empire. And that caused the Renaissance or "rebirth".
