This is a clear presentation of the rationale and steps required by an English teacher to develop a thinking, meaning-centred curriculum. The first part of the book studies the development of the co-creative classroom in which the students participate in curriculum development. Issues tackled include classroom management and assessment of student work. The second part comprises individual units of instruction, complete with daily lesson plans, selected readings and student worksheets. The volume will have a broad appeal to both teachers and high school students.

Created by a teacher for teachers, this unit - Fall Fun - is dedicated to the fall season. Children will engage in activities that promote learning and awareness of the season. This unit is divided into four segments: "Fall," "Orange" (color), "Apples," and "Pumpkins and Circle" (shape). The book features over 150 activities such as leaf graph sequencing chart, printing leaves and apples, exploring pumpkin seeds and making a seed collage, baking leaf-shaped cookies, and singing leaf counting songs. Each segment includes a complete planning web and classroom goals. All activities are described in great detail and have been tested in various preschool classrooms. Full Catastrophe Living (Revised Edition) Conseil de l'Europe Developing an Online Educational Curriculum: Techniques and Technologies acts as a guidebook for teachers and administrators as they look for support with their online education programs. It offers teaching suggestions for everything from course development to time management and community building. The book is designed to provide information to help teachers work more effectively with online tools, develop course materials for existing online courses, work with the internet as a medium of education and complete daily activities - such as evaluating assignments, lecturing and communicating with students more easily. Administrators are also given support in their efforts to recruit, train, and retain online teachers, allocate resources for online education and evaluate online materials for promotion and tenure. Early Childhood Education Carson-Dellosa Publishing

Created by a teacher for teachers, this unit-Winter-is dedicated to the winter season. Children will be introduced about winter and all things associated with this cold season: winter animals, hibernation, sports to play and clothes to wear. During this unit, children will have the opportunity to make snow and play with it, create an igloo out of balloon, learn about hibernation, that is, what animals sleep during the winter time and many more activities to fill all the learning centers with fun and creative activities. Each segment includes a complete planning web and goal. All activities are described in great detail and have been tested in a preschool classroom.

Harry Morgan lays the foundations of what early childhood education is by integrating the history of the field with the philosophy and theories behind this discipline. With lucid and engaging prose, Morgan delineates the beginnings of early childhood education and how it has become an important field of study in education today. In this updated edition, a new chapter about critical race theory and its implications on early childhood education has been included.

Growing up in democracy is addressed to teachers who want to integrate Education for Democratic Citizenship (EDC) and Human Rights Education (HRE) in their daily subject teaching. Nine teaching units of approximately four lesson plans each give step-by-step instructions and include student handouts and background information for teachers. The complete manual provides a full school year's curriculum for students in primary school (grades 4 to 6), but as each unit is also complete in itself the manual allows great flexibility in use. It is therefore also suitable for textbook editors, curriculum developers, teacher trainers, student teachers and beginning teachers. The objective of EDC/HRE is to teach children to become active citizens who are willing and able to participate in the democratic community. Therefore, EDC/HRE strongly emphasise action and task-based learning. The school community is conceived as a sphere of authentic experience where young people can learn how to participate in democratic decision making and may take responsibility at an early age. Key concepts for EDC/HRE are taught as tools of life-long learning.

This volume includes a pig with an ominous resemblance to Nikita Khrushchev and a scruffy goat who looks exactly like Fidel Castro. Both assure Okefenokeeans that a one-party system is the way to go; all will be well economically, they explain, because "the shortage will be divided amongst the peasants." Other storylines spotlight Kelly's remarkable cast: Pogo Possum, Albert Alligator, Howland Owl, "Churchy" LaFemme, Beauregard Bugleboy, Porky Pine, Miz Ma'm'selle Hepzibah, Deacon Mushrat, and so many others. All 104 Sunday strips from those two years are included, with supplementary features (including comprehensive annotations and index) by comics historians R.C. Harvey, Maggie Thompson, and Mark Evanier.

This detailed Teacher's Guide for the Read, Play, and Learn!® curriculum helps teachers and program directors in choosing materials, arranging their classrooms, using the curriculum to enhance children's skills, and identifying children's developmental levels so that appropriate modifications can be made. Key features include: Discussion of research on emergent literacy with specific suggestions on how teachers can use the activities in Read, Play, and Learn! to support learning and skill acquisition in their students. There are also guidelines on creating a literacy-rich environment in the classroom and creating opportunities for reading and writing. An appendix contains a list of suggested materials for each stage of literacy development. Descriptions of the three levels of learning--sensorimotor, functional, and symbolic--with guidelines on how teachers can identify a child's learning level and modify classroom activities to meet his or her individual needs. There are also suggestions on how teachers can use curriculum activities to encourage each child's cognitive, social-emotional, communication, and sensorimotor development, no matter their level of learning. An entire chapter devoted to ways you can involve families in their children's education. Aside from specific examples of ways to foster family involvement, the chapter also contains photocopyable handouts teachers can give to parents that describe the curriculum and ways parents can support their children's learning. Master planning sheets to help teachers plan activities for each center and learning area for an entire week. List of resources on accommodations and curricula for early childhood classrooms. Suggestions on how to get your classroom ready to use Read, Play, and Learn!, with descriptions of each of the centers and guidelines for arranging the classroom and planning a daily schedule. List of materials recommended for each center and learning area. Step-by-step instructions for teacher teams on planning and implementation of the curriculum. Chapters on adapting the curriculum for students with visual or hearing impairments. This Teacher's Guide is part of Read, Play, and Learn!, an innovative, play-based curriculum for children 3-6 years of age that promotes general development and boosts cognitive, sensorimotor, communication/language, social, and emerging literacy skills. Learn more about the complete Read, Play, and Learn! curriculum, and discover Toni Linder's play-based assessment and intervention system, TPBA2 and TPBI2. The Ultimate Pre-K Curriculum Big Preschool Workbook For Kids Ages 3 and

Up, Colors, Shapes, Numbers 1-10, Alphabet, Pre-Writing, Pre-Reading, Phonics and More This pack includes a short session for each day. These lessons are designed for ages 3-6. Each lesson varies in length. Most lessons will take about 5 minutes each to complete, however some lessons might take about 10-15 minutes. Each lesson is made for a certain day and everything is already scheduled and laid out for you. Feel free to do your own thing or mix things up however you see fit. Also feel to repeat lessons at any given time. Repetition Builds confidence in young learners. There is no wrong way to use this pack. You may also choose to laminate certain lessons and add them to a "busy box" or "busy bag" for play later on during the week. This works great with the puzzles, flash cards, memory games, clip cards, and lacing games. The goal of this lesson plan:
*Recognize letters and letter sounds
*Recognize and name shapes *Recognize and name colors *Count to 20 *Work on problem solving skills using simples and mazes *Work on fine motor skills using color sheets, line matching and fun mazes Remember the goal at this age to have fun and teach a love of learning. It's not how many minutes or hours of learning you can squeeze into one day. Sit back relax and have fun together! Happy learning!:) )

This unit will take children to the wonderful world of insects and spiders. It will explore insects' similarities and differences through art projects, science experiments and other activities for learning centers. The unit will also include weather- and spring-themed activities such as creating a spider web at the dramatic play area; making a tornado inside a bottle; preparing an edible mushroom out of an egg and tomato - to name a few. Each segment in this unit includes a complete planning web and goal. All activities are described in great detail and have been previously tested in a preschool classroom.

Classroom Advice for New Teachers Rowman & Littlefield

For many children much of the time their experience in classrooms can be rather dull, and yet the world the school is supposed to initiate children into is full of wonder. This book offers a rich understanding of the nature and roles of wonder in general and provides multiple suggestions for to how to revive wonder in adults (teachers and curriculum makers) and how to keep it alive in children. Its aim is to show that adequate education needs to take seriously the task of evoking wonder about the content of the curriculum and to show how this can routinely be done in everyday classrooms.

The authors do not wax flowery; they present strong arguments based on either research or precisely described experience, and demonstrate how this argument can be seen to work itself out in daily practice. The emphasis is not on ways of evoking wonder that might require virtuoso teaching, but rather on how wonder can be evoked about the everyday features of the math or science or social studies curriculum in regular classrooms.
