It is a common idea that we only use only 3000 words or 10% of the 10000+ we know. Using Gauss curve, we can say that 80% of what you can expect to listen in France is spoken French, 10% will be very formal and 10% slang. I think the same applies to Pareto law. 80% of what you learn in books will be different in daily French. This book is all about French language and statistics. Whereas we can't only rely on statistics, you can leapfrog many things and find your way thanks to it. In this book, you will find statistics about ; Structures, pronunciation, vocabulary, conjugation. The French Student's Companion John Wiley & Sons
 Excerpt from The French Verbs Arranged on a New System: By Which the Learner Is Taught to Form the Inflections of All the Verbs in the French Language Amounting to 5011 Encouraged by the reception of my little manual of the French Genders (nine thousand copies of which have been sold in eight months), I have endeavoured to remove another of the great impediments to an efficient knowledge of the French language, by facilitating the acquirement of the Verbs. I did not undertake this work, until I had drawn out an accurate list of all the verbs in the French lansfaire, classed according to their terminations, and had examined whether, in respect to the division of the verbs into conjugations, the arrangement of the grammars most in use appeared to admit of improvement. I found, that some of the most popular French grammarians (of whose general merits it is scarcely possible to speak too highly) had classed the conjugations without consideration either as to the number or regularity of the verbs, a method which is calculated rather to perplex than to assist the memory of the young scholar.
