Chapter 6 Geological framework of the Andaman-Nicobar Islands The Andaman-Nicobar archipelago that forms the western margin of the Andaman Sea is a sediment-dominated accretionary wedge (outer-arc island) associated with a convergent margin tectonic setting. The Andaman accretionary ridge consists of two stratigraphically and structurally distinct terranes, juxtaposed and telescoped into a north-south-trending high-relief fold-thrust belt formed along the obliquely subducting eastern margin of the Indo-Australian oceanic lithospheric plate. Chapter 6 Geological framework of the Andaman-Nicobar ... January 01, 2017. Rocks exposed across the hundreds of islands that belong to the 800 km long Andaman-Nicobar archipelago provide a condensed window into the active subduction zone that separates the India-Australia plate from the over-riding Burma-Sunda plate. Despite a strategic and seismically active location the Andaman-Nicobar ridge has seen comparatively little research. The Andaman-Nicobar Accretionary Ridge: Geology, Tectonics ... The rock formations of southernmost Great Nicobar island are said to be of younger tertiary age and are geologically similar to the south-west coast of Sumatra and younger in origin than that of the Andaman group of islands. The soils are immature, loose in texture, poor in drainage and low in moisture retaining capacity.
