The key of Managerial Economics is the micro-economic theory of the firm. It lessens the gap between economics in theory and economics in practice.

Managerial Economics is a science dealing with effective use of scarce resources. It guides the managers in taking decisions relating to the firm's customers, competitors, suppliers as well as relating to the internal functioning of a firm. It makes use of statistical and analytical tools to assess economic theories in solving practical business problems. Study of Managerial Economics helps in enhancement of analytical skills, assists in rational configuration as well as solution of problems. While microeconomics is the study of decisions made regarding the allocation of resources and prices of goods and services, macroeconomics is the field of economics that studies the behavior of the economy as a whole (i.e. entire industries and economies). Managerial economics is a stream of management studies that emphasizes primarily solving business problems and decision-making by applying the theories and principles of microeconomics and macroeconomics. It is a specialized stream dealing with an organization's internal issues by using various economic theories. Economics is an indispensable part of any business. All the business assumptions, forecasting, and investments are derived from this single concept. This is managerial economics meaning in a nutshell. Nature of managerial economics You need to know about its various characteristics to get more information about managerial economics. In the mentioned below points let's read about the nature of this concept: Art and Science: Management theory requires a lot of critical and logical thinking and analytical skills to make decisions or solve problems. Many economists also find it a source of research, saying it includes applying different economic concepts, techniques and methods to solve business problems. Micro Economics: In managerial economics, managers typically deal with the problems relevant to a single entity rather than the economy as a whole. It is therefore considered an integral part of microeconomics. Uses Macro Economics: A corporation works in an external world, i.e. it serves the consumer, which is an important part of the economy. For this purpose, it is important that managers evaluate the various macroeconomic factors such as market dynamics, economic changes, government policies, etc., and their effect on the company. Multidisciplinary: It uses many tools and principles that belong to different disciplines, such as accounting, finance, statistics, mathematics, production, operational research, human resources, marketing, etc. Prescriptive/Normative Discipline: By introducing corrective steps it aims at achieving the objective and solves specific issues or problems.

Management Oriented: This serves as an instrument in managers' hands to deal effectively with business-related problems and uncertainties. This also allows for setting priorities, formulating policies, and taking successful decision-making.

Pragmatic: The solution to day-to-day business challenges is realistic and rational. Both managers take a different view of the principle of managerial economics. Others may concentrate more on customer service while others may make efficient production a priority.
